

WORKSHOP

WRITING AND COMMUNICATION BETWEEN SYRIA AND ANATOLIA
IN THE TRANSITION FROM THE LATE BRONZE TO THE EARLY IRON AGE
TEXTS, SCRIPTS, AND MATERIAL CONTEXTS ACROSS A CHANGING REGIONAL LANDSCAPE

Monday, May 25

14.45 – 15.00 MARIA ELENA BALZA (University of Pavia)

Opening Remarks

15.00 – 15.45 MAURO GIORGIERI (University of Pavia)

The Digraphic Tradition of Hurrian Texts at Ugarit: An Overview

15.45 – 16.30 GIULIA COZZI (University of Pavia)

The ūbdy-Fields: Script Choice and Administrative Adaptation of Hittite Models at Ugarit

16.30 – 16.45 Coffee Break

16.45 – 17.30 LORENZO D'ALFONSO (New York University / University of Pavia)

A Luwian Diaspora? Reconsidering Iron Age Cremation Cemeteries as Evidence for the Migration of Luwian-Speaking Peoples to Syria at the Fall of the Hittite Empire (ca. 1200 BC)

17.30 – 18.15 MARINA PUCCI (University of Florence)

Communicating Power in Transition: Material Practices, Social Codes, and Regional Trajectories between Late Bronze and Iron I Syria-Anatolia

Tuesday, 26 May

10.00 – 10.45 FEDERICO GIUSFREDI (University of Verona)

Luwian, Aramaic, Phoenician, Syro-Anatolian, Akkadian: Script, Politics, and Identity in the Iron Age

10.45 – 11.30 JONATHAN VALK (Spanish National Research Council -CSIC-, Madrid)

The Origin of Written Aramaic

11.30 – 11.45 Coffee Break

11.45 – 12.30 PHILIP BOYES (University of Cambridge)

Writing, Monumentality and Change in Early Iron Age Phoenicia

12.30 – 12.45 Concluding Remarks